October 2009

Class Completes Funding of Lodge: $194K Raised!

Driven by the Matching Gift Program offered by classmates Rick Reiss, George Trumbull, and Tim Urban, and a renewed effort to recognize deceased classmates, the Class "blew past" the goal of $160,000 by raising $194,394 from 250 classmates (including eighteen remembered by others) as we go to press. All donors will be included on a bronze plaque that will be placed inside the Class of 1966 Lodge at the base of Moose Mountain.

"It is a tribute to the cohesiveness of our class that 250 individuals, many of whom have not contributed to the College in years, stepped up for the funding of this project," reported Lodge Fundraising Chairman Jim Lustenader. "This achievement is even more noteworthy considering the economic situation the country is in and the growing number of retirees on fixed incomes within our class."

Class President Chuck Sherman, who first saw the opportunity afforded to the class for funding the DOC student-led construction of the Lodge, was ecstatic with the results. “As with the Memorial Field Scoreboard funded by the Class fifteen years ago, we have another highly visible legacy for 1966’ers. Dartmouth President Kim has already visited the Lodge for a DOC dinner; over a thousand other students, administrators, and alumni have used the Lodge in its first nine months. I’m also proud that the Class was able to meet its DCF goal while putting forth this incredible effort for the Lodge.”

The funds raised in excess of the original $160K goal will be added to an endowment for future maintenance of the Class of 1966 Lodge. Dick Birnie, who is on a DOC Committee which oversees Lodge operations, said, “The endowment is extremely important for insuring that the Lodge remains in excellent condition, particularly considering the tough choices the College is facing economically. We want the Lodge to remain a symbol of our Class for many decades to come.”

“We are looking forward to the evening of October 23,” added Jim Lustenader, “when we will officially present the check to the DOC and the College over Homecoming. A prototype plaque will also be unveiled with the names of the contributors and memorialized classmates who will be recognized. Again, my personal thanks to the entire class for this outstanding effort.”

Sherman and Day Chosen Class Officers of the Year

Chuck Sherman and Ben Day were selected Class President and Class Webmaster of the Year by their respective class officer associations at Class Officers’ Weekend, September 25-26.

Chuck’s citation recognized his efforts to enhance class-mate communication and participation, specifically the website, newsletter, “Where Oh Where”, Sixty-Sixth Night, and the Santa Fe 65th Birthday Party programs. The citation notes, “As a quantitative research specialist, you like the tangible stuff, but also understand the fundamental nature of engagement and community. Your work has touched the heart of every member of the class.”

The citation continues, “You are in constant touch with your class officers, making extensive use of conference calls to conduct class business...Your leadership and guidance strengthens the Dartmouth bond.” It also recognized Chuck’s work on behalf of the Class of 1966 Lodge. Congratulations, Chuck, on a most well-deserved recognition of your creativity and hard-work.

Our Webmaster’s citation reads in part, “Ben brought with him considerable experience, eagerness, and fresh ideas to the job. Good communications have always been an integral part of Ben’s professional career, first at AT&T and Lucent designing and supporting systems to better support medium-sized businesses, and now independently designing websites advancing the careers of performing artists. His Class, and in fact all of Dartmouth, is proud that Ben is also advancing the Great Class of 1966 - to their great satisfaction.”

The citation notes Ben’s photo gallery, interactive class surveys, the on-line balloting for Alumni Council rep (a Dartmouth first), his design changes which allow for fast updating of events, and his support and publicity for the Class of 1966 Lodge, including an automatic slide-show and streaming video. Finally,

Coming Events

Sixty-Sixth Night Parties	Various Locales	March 7, 2010
Fall Mini-Reunion	Hanover, NH	October 29-30, 2010
45th Reunion	Hanover, NH	October 14-17, 2011

"Ben scanned and digitized the full texts of all the 1966 Class newsletters since graduation, as well as the full texts of all Alumni Magazine Class Notes columns, a project that Ben is just completing... If it wasn't for an errant misspelling on the Dartmouth College seal - Where somehow Dartmouth got spelled Dartmoose - Ben's work as a Class webmaster would be truly without blemish." Ben, your classmates commend you for this very special recognition of all you do for our Class.

Class Receives Honorable Mention as Class of Year

understanding of the College's heritage and traditions and his constant reference to the words and accomplishments of Presidents Hopkins and Dickey. While he supports the continued importance of research among the students and faculty, there is no question that he plans to build on Dartmouth's focus as the top undergraduate college in the country (as recently recognized by US News & World Report). His plans to reintroduce the Great Issues course is an example of that commitment.

Most of the meeting is spent comparing best practices in each of the officer categories and sharing issues with similar-aged classes (the decade of the 60's met together). Larry Geiger concluded his term as President of the Secretaries' Association, leading his group's meetings. We all had the chance to attend one academic session; most of us elected to hear one of the nation's experts, and a Dartmouth professor, on doctored photographs.

News of Classmates

Paul Buffum shared an update with Roger Brett: "I am working out of my house in Wilton, NH doing legal work mostly for my former boss. Also working hard on house stuff for (wife) Bevan! I do find the time to get plenty of golf, tennis and skiing in, including tennis with Rick Monahon '65 who lives in the next town."

The Dartmouth Alumni Magazine hosted the Dartmouth screening of a film by neurologist Howie Weiner, on October 12. The documentary, which features interviews on “life’s big questions,” includes student Joe Coleman ’11, as well as Dartmouth faculty members Walter Sinnott-Armstrong (philosophy), Adina Roskies (philosophy), and Ehud Benor (religion). Howie introduced the film, “What Is Life – The Movie” and a reception followed the screening. He is the Director of the Partners Multiple Sclerosis Center at the Brigham and Women’s Hospital and a neurology professor at Harvard Medical School. Howie’s dual professional lives as doctor and filmmaker may seem very different, but he contends that they relate to each other quite well: “As a doctor, you’re confronted with life’s big questions all the time because you see illness in people,” he said. “It puts life into perspective.” Chuck Sherman attended the presentation.

“The state that was the first to provide laptops to every seventh- and eighth-grader in its public schools is moving on to its high schools,” stated a recent article in The Boston Globe. “Maine’s top education official vowed yesterday that every high school student will have a laptop computer within two years. The state is currently distributing 67,000 computers to more than half of its high schools. The laptop program began under Governor Angus King, who wanted to eliminate the “digital divide” between wealthy and poor children. Maine started by distributing more than 30,000 computers to every seventh- and eighth-grader in 2002 and 2003.

“A few weeks ago I had the most fun on the Connecticut River since we rowed so many years ago”, writes Don Ries. “My niece rows for the Hanover High Crew team and we went out in a double for a little over an hour on a lovely summer afternoon. The rowing was not perfect but we had some good stretches and made it up to the Chieftain and back. Set up was mostly solid and the new equipment is fantastic. Carbon fiber oars are so much lighter, and the new handle material raised hardly any blisters. The bite with the hatchet blades is impressive. I would encourage anyone with a son/daughter/nephew or niece to have a go at it. I will compete in the Huntsman Senior Games in St. George, Utah from 5-9 October. Entering the cycling events as they have no rowing. It is a great experience with a fine balance of competition and comraderie.”

A contingent of ‘66ers spent a September weekend at the College Grant’s Pete Blodgett Cabin fishing, hiking, and eating. Standing at back are Cindy Barnard and Marge Titcomb. Seated in the middle row are Dan Barnard, Dick Birnie, Chuck Sherman, and Pete Titcomb, in front are Pietie Birnie and Margie Carpenter. Webster Carpenter-Sherman is happily facing the group rather than the camera. Note the Lodge graphic on the new Class banner.

“Just received the August newsletter,” writes Ed Long, “and was reminded that I wanted to report to you and the rest of the class on our visit last month to the Class of 1966 Lodge (see picture below).

For the past three years my wife and I have spent the summer in Thornton, NH while renting out our place in Jamestown, RI. This year, on one of our side trips, we picked up an old friend from Newport, Dr Ben Gilson '55, at the Kendal at Hanover retirement center and sought out the Lodge. After some initial confusion brought on by too much information (would have been better off with a just topographical map and compass), we finally found the trail and soon arrived at the site. Unfortunately, no one was there and it was locked up tight, but I can tell you that this is a structure of which we all can be proud. As I looked out from the front deck it struck me that I had been there before. Must have been the last night of our freshman hike, September 1962, at the old Harris Cabin. Does anyone else remember being there? Or am I just dreaming? Any way, I was impressed enough to write another small check for the cause and to break loose some of the treasure graciously offered by our classmates, Tim Urban, Rick Reiss, and George Trumbull.”

“As for personal news, I continue to work part time at two jobs, both Navy-related, one as a contractor helping to write doctrine, the other teaching ship handling at the Surface Warfare Officers School in Newport. Wife, Evelyn Rhodes, is staying active as an artist of some renown locally. Son and daughter are settled and raising, combined, a total of four granddaughters and one grandson. We don't get to see them enough. Have been in contact with classmate and teammate Jon Colby, who lives nearby, by phone but have yet hook up in person. We are planning to visit classmate Bill Gruver and his wife Joan in Eagles Mere, PA in a couple of weeks. Bill and I are going participate in DOC's Appalachian Trail in a Day event Oct 10. On Oct 24 Evelyn and I will be in Hanover for the Columbia football game and a reunion of the 1963 championship team.”

Mike Handelsman writes, “Hi classmates. Remember Lou's? Well, that old hangout will serve you up some memories as sweet as their blueberry pie. I stopped in for lunch on a pass-thru on the way to the White Mountains in mid-summer. I doubt that we ever saw the lines for seating like those I witnessed that day, but they do have a workable system, and they sure know how to do 'retro'. It had the look and feel of the '50's/'60's, with the long wall displaying b&w photos dating from their late '40's start, and including, of course, our era. And as coincidence would dictate, we were seated in the booth I used to occupy most often some 45 years ago!”

“A few days later I experienced both the joy and pain of revisiting the Mt. Washington summit on foot for the first time since 1977. The 32 years served to obscure the memory of what a rockpile that entire summit cone is covered with. (I really believe those rocks were put down there since, as well as the several hundred feet they must have added to the altitude!) I went up by the Tuckerman Ravine Trail and descended with Lion Head. I learned later that the reverse route would have probably been wiser for someone so UNwise as to be hiking there alone, out of cell coverage and with an unresolved leg injury (which strangely resolved itself after that hike.) Sorry I couldn't make the 65th birthday blast, especially in my favorite southwest venue. But why not a 66th for us '66-ers? Be well, and keep in touch through that time-tested form of communication known as email.” Mike checks his email at hikermike7@yahoo.com.

Ken Meyercord was another recent visitor to the Class of 1966 Lodge, hiking in with another Texan from a high school reunion in Bradford, NH...and 20-or-so Hanover High girls' soccer team members who were spending the night. Ken wrote: "Thanks for the tour of the lodge. Ross and I enjoyed it immensely. I won't be making the mini-reunion in October as I'll be in China, but if my plans for retirement in June come to pass we'll definitely be there next year."

"Chuck Benson, a friend from Canada, and I just finished a fine backpacking trip of the Bigelow Range in Maine," writes Lance Tapley. "Chuck left our house this morning. He and I reconnected after many, many years (well, since graduation) because of his blurb in the class newsletter last year describing his ski down Moosilauke and wondering if any classmate would like to do such things. We both now are interested in knowing if more of our classmates are into these backwoods, but fun-filled adventures."

A number of classmates have responded to the request to provide or confirm their email addresses in the "Where Oh Where" section of our website. Miles Hoffman writes, "I seem to be listed twice in the list of classmates--probably not the best use of bits and bytes. Still working: I'm with the American College of Occupational and Environmental Medicine, the medical association for physicians who are corporate medical directors or otherwise practice occupational medicine. I handle membership and a variety of other duties for the association. We are close to O'Hare for ease of travel." Miles lives in Lake Zurich, IL and can be reached at mkh@language-resources.com.

Jack Nevison informed us of his new address at jmn@newleafpm.com. "While I haven't been very active in Dartmouth affairs, I read the news with great interest. As I navigate my business to a decent conclusion in the next few years, I'm anticipating I'll have more time for giving back."

Walking the Adirondack Trail in a Day

A number of classmates participated in the DOC-sponsored "Walking the AT", part of the Dartmouth Outing Club's 100th Anniversary celebration. As noted earlier, Bill Gruver, with help from Ed Long, completed about nine miles in Pennsylvania, Steve Zeller about 8 miles near Eckville, PA, and Steve Lanfer about 13 miles near Black Brook, ME.

Paula and Ed Jereb travelled from Philadelphia up to Maine to hike part of a fourteen mile section. Ed reported the following: "I participated in the DOC 100 year anniversary AT-in-a-day walk in the woods. Over 850 hikers attempted to cover the 2200 miles of the Appalachian Trail from Georgia to Maine on October 10th. I coordinated the first section of the trail from the summit of Mount Katahdin through the 100 mile wilderness to Monson, ME. My efforts to find hikers for this section explains the cryptic phone calls that I left on many of your answering machines. In the end we had plenty of hikers for the 100 mile wilderness but failed to find links for the chain in Virginia and Tennessee preventing us from completing the entire trail. Paula and I personally tramped over the Barren Mountain-Chairback range on a cloudy, sometimes rainy, day, linking with Roger Gilmore '54 from the north and finishing in the dark 14 miles later. Spencer Meyer '01 capped our section with a fearless 19 mile dawn to dusk trek through ice and snow to the summit of Katahdin."

"As a stranger to the Maine woods I found the terrain challenging, the people in slatey, little Monson friendly and the bar-b-que reminiscent of Texas. Though not a chubber in my undergraduate days—staying off academic probation took all my time—I was pleased to help the DOC with its celebration."

Lance Tapley also covered a portion of the AT in Maine: “My day was a very successful, if long, solo, from 6:45 a.m. to 9:45 p.m, through rain, snow, cold, high winds, 3 1/2 hours with a headlamp, and even some sun--and the most beautiful sunset I’ve ever seen, looking back from the top of Little Bigelow to the main Bigelow peaks that I had traversed. The colors of the hardwoods were pretty nice, too. According to the sign at the end, I went 17.2 miles. Got slowed down by the weather, including slippery rocks, roots, and leaves. The solo aspect was extremely fine. Never saw a soul in the last half. Lots of time to think and talk to the trees.”

Congratulations to Lance, Ed J., Steve L. and Steve Z., Bill, and Ed L. (as well as any others I might have missed) for representing the Class in this endeavor!!!

A budget for 2009-2010 will be presented at the Class Meeting over Homecoming and reported in the next issue of Along Route '66.

Treasurer Tim Urban will be sending out a second dues mailing shortly. Or you can pay by check and fill out and return the remittance slip at the bottom of Page 9.

In Memorium

The Class recently learned that Scott Bowron had died of cancer in September 2008. A graduate of Palm Beach (FL) High, Scott was salutatorian of his high school class and a member of the National Honor Society. A biology major and member of Tau Epsilon Pi Fraternity (which he served as Pledgemaster-Warden) and the DOC, Scott was working for Cherry Computing in Bridgewater, NJ, and living in Pompton Lakes, NJ when he died. He is survived by his daughter Jillian, who can be reached at 120 Treasure Island Road, Shapleigh, ME.

John H.A. "Herbie" Wilkinson died peacefully at his home in Richards Landing, Ontario on February 24, 2009. He is survived by his sister Marny and her husband Michael Doyle of Austin, Texas. John was a survivor of the polio epidemic of the late 40's and early 50's. On one memorable occasion his grandfather hired a band to greet John upon his return from a hospital stay, playing "As Johnny Comes Marching Home". John completed high school at Trinity College in Port Hope, Ontario, where he was active in all school publications, student government, glee club, and dramatics. He led his high school debating team and managed the football, basketball, and swimming teams. Although his obituary stated he graduated from "Dartmouth University in New Hampshire", there is no listing in the Aegis. Upon completing his education he embarked on his teaching career in Hamilton, Ontario and went on to spend most of his teaching career at his high school alma mater near Sault Ste. Marie. After retiring John spent the balance of his life on St Joseph's Island, where he remained active in community affairs.

John W. Uhlmann of Prairie Village, KS died Friday, August 21, 2009. He was Chairman of the Board of The Uhlmann Co., a family-owned grocery products firm, previously known as Standard Milling, the maker of Wheatena, Maypo, and Patio Chef Charcoal.

John graduated from Pembroke Country Day where he was active in the school newspaper, glee club, basketball, football, and tennis. He did not graduate from the College.

He was past president of Hyman Brand Hebrew Academy, the Jewish Federation of Greater Kansas City, the Kansas City Art Institute and the Jacob L. and Ella C. Loose Foundation. He served on the boards of the United Israel Appeal and United Jewish Communities, where he was a member of the Overseas Needs Assessment and Distribution Committee. He was on the national boards of the Jewish Institute for National Security Affairs, Toward Tradition and Voices United for Israel. John was also a member of the boards of UMB Bank and Menorah Medical Center. He was active in politics and at one time ran for the Republican nomination for the 3rd Congressional District in Kansas.

Uhlmann is survived by his wife, Patricia Uhlmann, and two daughters and sons-in-law, Katherine and Dennis Aikman of Marblehead, Mass., and Meg and Justin Shaw of Leawood, as well as five grandchildren and other family.

James M. Pool died Monday, June 8, 2009 at Georgetown Memorial Hospital in SC, close to his home on Pawley's Island, about an hour north of Charleston. Jim grew up in Longmeadow, MA and was a graduate of Longmeadow High School, along with '66 classmates Tim Paige, Bill Ferris, and Tom Clarke. At Longmeadow High, he was editor of both the school newspaper and yearbook, and played baseball, basketball, soccer, and tennis.

While at the College Jim played on the soccer team and was a member of the DOC. Class Treasurer our freshman and sophomore years, he served on the Undergraduate Council and was a member of Green Key. He joined Theta Delta Chi, serving his fraternity as Treasurer. Many of his brothers (see photo at right supplied by Roger Brett; Jim is in the first row second from the left) provided memories for this obituary. Affectionately known as “Cess”, Jim was a winning poker player with “attitude” (Paul Buffum remembers Jim never losing) and a frequent day-tripper to Colby Junior (Steve Jones remembers “seeing Cess upside down in his car on our way to Colby Jr. Laughing of course!”). He mixed sarcasm with a winning-grin (Chuck Vernon remembers Jim making fun of Chuck’s saddle-shoes at a pre-Dartmouth Longmeadow picnic).

A 1969 graduate of Boston University Law School, he lived in Clarksburg, WV for 22 years where he practiced as a defense attorney. Jim was a member of the West Virginia Bar Association, retiring in 2004. He moved to Pawleys Island in 2005 where he was the President of the Pawleys Island Beautification Program and taught at Coastal Carolina University. He was an avid master gardener. Surviving are his only daughter, Courtney Pool-Mitchell and husband Jeremy of Charleston, WV, his fiancé, Rachel Sharron Held of Pawleys Island; and grandchildren, Mark and Stevie.

Alumni Council

Wayne LoCurto reminds us of the December Alumni Council meeting: “I would appreciate hearing what’s on our classmates’ minds so I can make our voices heard in Hanover. Thanks.” You can email Wayne at wlocurto@gmail.com.

“Once again, as the Class of ’66, we heard the proverbial ‘voice crying in the wilderness’ and responded by raising $218,376, surpassing our $200K goal”, writes our Head Agent Bob Spence. “Once again we said ‘we hear you, we’re here and we’ll help’. Thanks, guys. Thanks also to all the class agents who have made such possible. That extra involvement by those class members willing to give of their time to the DCF makes all the difference.

Thanks, guys. This job is never done, however, so now we launch into the 2010 campaign with a class goal of $250K for the year. With the Lodge campaign successfully completed, it should be doable. In addition, we will be laying the ground work for the 45th Reunion effort. The goal is to be “Class of the Year” at our 45th (or as Chuck would put it, let’s be the biggest, most recognizable moose in the wilderness in 2011). The DCF is only a part of what is necessary to achieve that goal, but it’s one with the greatest direct student impact. Ideas and new agent volunteers are always welcome. We are Dartmouth.”

A list of all donors from the successful 2008-2009 campaign is included on Page 10.

From the Editors of the Dartmouth Alumni Magazine

We know. We know! And we are sorry. The mistake in the DAM story "Rising From the Ruins" (Nov/Dec 2009 issue) that refers to the Class of 1996 Lodge is regrettable and unforgivable. We've heard from you, we are aware of it, and we will let all readers know of it in our next issue.
