June Mini-Reunion Unites over 120 Classmates & Guests

Attendance far exceeded expectations at the Class of '66 75th Birthday Celebration in Newport RI in June. Over 120 Classmates and guests attended all or part of the 4-day event.

The celebration and mini reunion kicked off on Monday, June 17, with a reception at the Newport Harbor Hotel and a narrated boat tour of the lower reaches of Narragansett Bay. Afterwards, attendees got together in small groups for dinner, sampling some of Newport's many fine dining establishments.

Dodging rain showers the next day, the group embarked on another guided tour -- this time on chartered trolleys -- to enjoy the coastline, learn a bit of Newport's fascinating history, and see what "egregious excess" really looks like at The Breakers, the summer cottage of the Vanderbilt family. Rain continued but spirits weren't dampened as we gathered for 'tails and dinner at the hotel.

The weather improved when the history lesson continued on Wednesday -- via a tour of the Naval War College Museum, with exhibits tracing the development of the United States as a sea power from the Revolution to the present.

On Wednesday evening, classmates and their guests gathered at the iconic Easton's Beach Rotunda on First Beach for a classic New England lobster dinner, followed by a giant class birthday cake. Jim Lustenader and Jon Colby's wife Sue (who turned 66 that evening) blew out the candles in front of the crowd and then cut the cake.

The mini-reunion ended on Thursday morning, when classmates and guests gathered at the Newport Yacht Club for a festive farewell brunch.

Jon Colby, John Pearson and Cynthia Simeone provided the local co-ordination and planning. John and Cynthia negotiated with vendors, made centerpieces for both dinners, and put together materials to be distributed to each attendee. The Class thanks Jon, Jon and Cynthia for their efforts.

Ted Amaral wrote "It was invigorating to reconnect with old friends and make new ones." He put together a great video of his photos during the weekend, which can be seen via this link: <https://vimeo.com/343659903>. More pictures from the event are on pages 7 thru 12 of this newsletter.

PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Dear Classmates:

There is good news to report and good times to look forward to as we start our new fiscal year.

The 75th Birthday party in Newport was a great success, with over 120 classmates and guests attending, some from as far away as London and Washington state. A recap and pictures appear elsewhere in this newsletter. My thanks to the planning committee for their hard work: Bob Serenbetz, Al Keiller, Ben Day, Jon Colby, and particularly John Pearson and Cynthia Simeone, the local organizers who did the heavy lifting with vendors and venues to ensure that all had a good time. And to our team of classmate photographers: Paul Klee, Rich Abraham, Gary Broughton, Tom Brady, and Wayne Hill.

Another significant milestone was achieved in June: we blew past our dollar goal for the Dartmouth College Fund, due mainly to the efforts of Head Agent Noel Fidel, ably assisted by Mike Bromley and a dedicated team of classmate volunteers. And while we didn't hit our participation target, we beat the College average as we have in years past.

Looking forward, two events this fall should be particularly exciting given that this year is Dartmouth's 250th anniversary. We have plans for what will be a special Homecoming on October 11-12; see Mini-Reunion Chair Al Keiller's note for details. Then there is the football game against Princeton at 3:00 pm on November 9 in Yankee Stadium, where seats are still available in the Class of '66 section. To get tickets for yourself or a group, call the Dartmouth ticket office at 603-646-2466 or email Big.Green.Tickets@Dartmouth.edu and ask to be seated in section 119. Note: unsold tickets will be released to the general public after September 1.

For next year, Brad Stein is organizing a cruise of Japan's inland sea from May 19-30; contact Brad at bradstein66@gmail.com for details. And in 2021, the great class of '66 will celebrate its 55th reunion in Hanover from June 14-17, so save the date for what will be a great time at our last formal, College-supported gathering.

Finally, I'm sad to report that we lost three members of our '66 community over the past few months: Steve Lynch passed away on May 19th, Chris Scott passed away on June 7th and Marie Meyer -- wife of classmate Chris "Twig" Meyer -- also died on June 7th. The class extends condolences to their families and friends.

I hope to see many of you in Hanover or New York City this fall; in the meantime, please get in touch if you have any questions or concerns: jimlustenader@aol.com

TREASURER'S REPORT

We finished the 2018-2019 fiscal year in June well ahead of budget, thanks to the 334 classmates and widows (up seven from last year!) who paid their dues. Results were also enhanced by our very successful 75th Birthday Party in Newport, which far exceeded our attendance estimates. We were also able to set aside $11,200 as a reserve towards our 55th Reunion in 2021, a reserve which is cumulatively almost $34K:

Item	Budget	Actual Income
Dues	$29,988	$31,798

DARTMOUTH

DARTMOUTH COLLEGE FUND

As most of you know (but just to jog your memory) Dartmouth runs on a July 1 to June 30 fiscal year. The results of our annual fund raising drive to support the Dartmouth College Fund are in and we should give ourselves a rouse and a cheer!

Our DCF goal for this fiscal year was $250,000, up from $215,000. Last fiscal year we raised $267,468. Goals are sometimes an aspiration and those of us who were involved in setting this year's goal thought last time around was a really exceptional year and that to match what we raised in fiscal 2017-2018 would be too much of a reach, but thanks to you, we have just raised $314,207 for the DCF. We raised 17.5% more this year than last and were 25.7% over goal. Kudos and many thanks to all who so generously participated.

While total dollars contributed have increased so significantly, there is one area in which we could improve. This is with regard to the number of donors from our class participating in the DCF campaign. Our goal was to have half of our class contribute to the DCF. Last year our class participation rate was 46%. This year it was down slightly to 44.7%. While variations from year to year can be expected it would be nice to see the trend line move upward rather than the reverse. Even so our class participation rate compares favorably with the overall college rate of 41.5% and we continue to be a leader in supporting Dartmouth. For those who did not give, perhaps for financial reasons, please remember that any gift is a good gift and we hope you will reconsider next year so that we can achieve our 50% goal.

The College recognizes all gifts regardless of whether they are to the DCF or designated for a particular purpose. The Call to Lead campaign started in 2014. Since then 58% of the class has participated in giving to the College, contributing $21,348,164 to all Dartmouth designations including DCF, buildings, endowments and athletics. The actual total may be higher because, except for gifts to the DCF, the College does not include anonymous gifts in the total.

Dartmouth places special emphasis on the DCF because these donations are unrestricted and are the principal source of scholarship funds for Dartmouth undergraduates allowing the College to continue to operate on a needs blind admission basis and move towards eliminating the loan component of financial aid. For that reason all of us who are involved in the fund raising effort hope that those of you who contribute to other aspects of the Call to Lead campaign will consider making some portion of your gift to the DCF.

Our fund-raising team is ably led by Head Agent Noel Fidel. Our Class Agents are Tom Brady, Erv Burkholder, Bill Cooper, Ed Dailey, Jeff Futter, Dave Gordon, Bill Higgins, Gary Jefferson, Al Keiller, Steve Lanfer, Terry Lowd, Hector Motroni, John Rollins, Bob Spence, Tim Urban, Noel and myself.

Gene Nattie continues to help teach at Dartmouth Medical School (cardiovascular and respiratory physiology and an elective on Physiology in the ICU) and does admissions interviews, even though he has been fully retired “income-wise” since November 2017. Gene adds “... No more research, except as a consultant, so no grants, papers, committees. I read fiction especially mysteries to make up for lost time in that regard and exercise moderately, e.g, golf, gym, walking on our road with my wife Candace who continues her super job as school nurse at Hanover NH high school. We really enjoy this phase of life especially our grandchildren (4 with a 5th due soon).”

On May 7th, Jim Weiskopf was inducted into the Army Public Affairs Hall of Fame as its 62nd member. The ceremony was hosted by Secretary of the Army (now Secretary of Defense) Mark Esper and Army Chief of Public Affairs, Brigadier General Amy Hannah.

The Army established this award in 2000 to recognize and honor Soldier and civilian Public Affairs professionals who made lasting and significant contributions to the history and traditions of Army Public Affairs.

Col. James D. Weiskopf receives the US Army Hall of Fame Award from Secretary of the Army (now Secretary of Defense) Mark Esper

The citation at the Awards ceremony noted “Exercising strong leadership and taking every opportunity to provide mentorship throughout his career, Weiskopf left a legacy of senior Public Affairs Officers, both military and civilian.”

Jim served in Army Public Affairs for more than half of his 26 years on active military duty, retiring as the Director of Public Affairs for the U.S. Military District of Washington. In that role, he led the joint service public affairs team for the two largest parades in our nation’s history – the Operation Desert Storm Welcome Home Parade in Washington, DC, followed just days later by the Ticker Tape Parade in New York City.

Early in his public affairs career, Weiskopf was the Tour Director/Public Affairs officer for the US Army Field Band & Soldiers Chorus, establishing procedures that advanced the outreach potential of this community engagement and communication asset -- procedures that are still used more than 45 years after he put them in place. Following this success, he was assigned to the Office of the Chief of Public Affairs as the Professional Development Branch Chief.

Jim currently serves as Vice President and scholarship program administrator for the Fisher House Foundation – a non-profit organization that helps service members and their families. He administers its Scholarships for Military Children program, which awarded a $ 2,000 scholarship grant for the 2019-2020 school year to 500 students from military families.

Peter Cleaves writes:

“I am one of our classmates not fully retired. Dartmouth nurtured an inherited interest in international affairs. My father Dick Cleaves D’32 traveled the world in adventures and business. Dartmouth directed me toward public policy, social development, economics, and languages.

“These influences led to a career with the Ford Foundation, Swiss and Arabian Gulf philanthropies, the University of Texas, and to finance at First Chicago. I worked professionally in French, Spanish, Portuguese and English living in Latin America, Europe, the US, and the Middle East.

“Son Geoff was born in Chile and daughter Rachel (D’96) in Peru. Now I combine leisure travel with wife Dorothy (51 years married), consulting in the above fields, and tennis wherever possible.

“Recent travels from Austin have been to Japan (where I lived as a youngster after WWII), Colombia for a wedding of one of my co-authors, Switzerland for work, UK, France and twice to Spain (with Geoff’s family).

“Since [my] last full-time position heading the Emirates Foundation in the UAE, consulting has included health finance in Senegal, evaluation training in Zurich, child labor in the Middle East, economic development in Jordan, financial marketing in Mexico, forced labor in Peru, university planning in Egypt, and private equity in Brazil. I'm now working on marketing pathogen detection machines invented in the Netherlands to the United States."

Peter adds, "How much longer can this wandering last? I don't know...but for now it is a good way to spend the remaining years, while thinking often of Dartmouth friends and professors, and gratitude that the College accepted me for a major called International Relations."

In July, Chuck Sherman ended his two-year term as President of the Dartmouth Club of the Upper Valley. His other pet project - serving on a non-profit to bring fiber-optic internet to all homes in 23 east central Vermont towns -- is nearing completion, with 2 years to go. Chuck writes, "with time on my hands, I may just pick blueberries, be a granddaddy, or cross some destinations off my bucket list (I just got back from Africa with a Dartmouth group). I hope that does not bring me closer to the bucket."

INTERNATIONAL TRAVEL PLANS

by Brad Stein

The time is now for you to sign up for either our May 2020 trip to the Inland Sea of Japan or our April 2021 trip to the Galapagos with possible extension to the Peruvian Andes, or both.

We have a good group already signed up for Japan as well as a nucleus of Galapagos travelers. If you are concerned about making a decision about the Galapagos so far in advance, be assured that your deposit is fully refundable until mid-October 2020 so you can sign up now. And you will need to sign up soon for both trips as they are filling up fast. If you are interested in joining either trip please send me an e-mail at bradstein66@gmail.com and I will send you the information you need to sign up. Looking forward to traveling with you.

The 218th Alumni Council met in Hanover during Green Key Weekend. It was a beautiful spring weekend and the campus was in full spring bloom.

Much of the agenda focused on the 250th birthday and the Call to Lead initiative including a reception and gala birthday party. The Call to Lead campaign continues to be very successful and is more than half toward meeting its goals.

There continues to be concern about the lawsuit against the College and we were assured by the board chair and administration that alumni would be informed as soon as there was anything to report.

We had a detailed report from Joanna Whitcomb about Dartmouth's 20-year strategic master plan. Dormitories and other buildings need major overhauls. A new heating plant is proposed using renewable resources from the surrounding forest. Also solar is being considered for several buildings.

Recommending trustees is one of the key tasks of the alumni council and there are several vacancies coming up in the next few years. You should have received a mailing from the Alumni Council requesting nominees. If you know of anyone who would make a good trustee, please drop me a note or send your suggestion to the Alumni Council's trustee nominating committee.

During our time in Hanover we had a special tour of the new Hood. It is a fantastic facility and one that you should make time for when you are in Hanover. As always, I appreciate and comments or concerns that you might have.

Dartmouth Honors Richard Reiss '66 for Historic Library Gift

The main interior hall of Baker Library has been named Reiss Hall in honor of Richard Reiss Jr., who made a $10 million gift to pursue innovation in the College's libraries. His gift launched a $30 million strategic effort to re-imagine the role of Dartmouth's libraries for the 21st century in service to teaching and research.

On May 31st, College President Phil Hanlon and Dean of Libraries Sue Mehrer hosted a reception honoring Rick for his generous contribution and revealing a new plaque at the entrance recognizing the gift from Rick and his family.

Classmates attending the reception included Rich Abraham, Don Glazer, Dave Johnston, Jim Lustenader, Gene Nattie, and Alan Rottenberg.

“To Rick and all of the members of the Reiss family with us this afternoon, we cannot thank you enough for investing in this most special place,” President Philip J. Hanlon '77 said at the ceremony. “We are so grateful for your leadership and know it will inspire others to follow your fine example in keeping the library at the forefront of teaching and learning, always.”

Together with his late wife, Bonnie, and his children, Lauren Reiss Frank and Michael Reiss '06, Rick has established two generous scholarship funds, and was among the first donors to the Hood Museum of Art expansion. He said he “wanted to do something a little different this time” and decided to support Baker-Berry for the digital age.

“There are many ways that the library can be a connection to the world,” he added. “Now we can re-imagine the library system, drawing upon all the potential of the digital age to expand access to information, innovate research methods, and accelerate collaboration between Hanover and other parts of the world. I think that's pretty exciting.”

Stephen McKee Lynch

Steve Lynch, 74, of Philadelphia, a jobs training coordinator and outdoorsman, died May 14 of complications from Parkinson’s disease at Wesley Enhanced Living at Stapeley in Germantown.

Mr. Lynch was born in Red Bank, near Chattanooga, TN. He earned a bachelor’s degree in history from Dartmouth College and a master’s degree from the Yale Divinity School in 1970.

During the mid-1970s, Mr. Lynch completed a master’s degree at Temple and was aiming for a doctorate at the University of Pennsylvania, when instead, he took a job in Camden setting up training programs for unemployed adults and helping them find jobs.

He worked for the Camden County Employment and Training Office which was funded by CETA, the Comprehensive Employment Training Act of 1973. Steve continued helping adult learners until retiring in 2012.

Although he loved Center City, he was most at home at his cabin in rural Schuylkill County. He liked to chop wood for the fireplace and became a master in identifying wildflowers and knowing all the different kinds of native ferns.

In the 1990s, Mr. Lynch was active in the Rittenhouse Coalition of Churches, an informal union of St. Mark’s Episcopal, First Baptist, and the Chestnut Street Unitarian churches. The coalition brought in grants to refurbish the three church buildings.

Mr. Lynch became a Unitarian Church member and the church photographer. He was particularly good at making guests and new members feel welcome. Steve also invited those who were new to the church auction to a brunch at his home, and to join him on various architectural excursions in the city.

Mr. Lynch was active in Philadelphia’s gay community and often attended fund-raisers at the William Way LGBT Community Center.

He is survived by a brother, Malcolm.

A celebration of life for family and friends was held on Sunday, July 21, at the Athenaeum of Philadelphia.

Christopher Jehu Scott

Christopher Jehu Scott, 73, was born on July 22, 1945, in Chicago. He entered eternal rest on Friday, June 7, 2019, at Prisma Health Tuomey Hospital.

He and his sister, Barbara, grew up under the loving care of their parents, the late Benjamin Franklin and Bessie Joyce Sampson Scott. He was a graduate of Evanston Township High School. Chris went on to receive a bachelor’s degree in journalism from Dartmouth College and a Master of Business Administration in accounting from Amos Tuck, also at Dartmouth. Chris also served in the United States Navy and was stationed in Dunoon, Scotland, on a submarine tender in the late 1960s and early ‘70s. Chris started his career as a certified public accountant at Price Waterhouse and then moved on to Xerox in Stamford, Connecticut, where he and Sheryl Scott raised their two daughters. Chris later worked at Novartis, based in Parsippany, New Jersey. He traveled around the country and internationally as an internal auditor, a job he enjoyed because of its similarity to detective work. In New Jersey, he and Brenda Scott enjoyed socializing with Mo and Barbara around the pool. In 2001, he moved to Sumter to assist his mother after his father’s death.

He is survived by his daughters, Lara Scott of Hamilton, New York, and Paige Scott Reed and son-in-law, Chris Reed, of Brookline, Massachusetts; sister, Barbara Burton-Edwards and brother-in-law, Mozette Edwards, of Sumter; uncle, Drefus Williams of Sumter; niece, Stacey Horn of Deland, Florida, and her husband, Kavin; grandchildren, Silas, Jasper and Etta; two grandnieces, Dasia and Kaia; and numerous beloved cousins.

Online memorials may be sent to the family at jobsmortuary@sc.rr.com or visit us on the web at www.jobsmortuary.net.

Spouse Notice

We are saddened to have learned of the passing of this Class of ‘66 spouse:

Marie A. Meyer (O’Connell), wife of Christopher Meyer, on June 7, 2019.

Homecoming Mini Reunion

October 11-12, 2019

As has been our long-standing tradition, we will once again hold a mini-reunion at Homecoming -- this year on Friday, October 11 and Saturday, October 12. We expect there will be additional special 250th Anniversary events over the weekend.

Yale will be the football opponent at 1:30 on Saturday; most other fall sports teams will also be facing off against their Yale rivals over the weekend.

Festivities will begin at 5:00 PM, Friday with a reception with beer, wine and soft drinks, and supper of BBQ breast of chicken, hot dogs, salad, and brownies in the Faculty Lounge at Hopkins Center overlooking the Green. At 7:00 we will break to join the Homecoming parade, Dartmouth Night festivities and the bonfire on the Green. The Faculty Lounge will reopen at 8:00 PM for additional refreshments (and a welcome shelter if the weather turns cold or wet). The Lounge and adjacent terrace are perfect for viewing the bonfire.

On Saturday morning at 10:00 AM we will return to the lovely home of Paul and Margo Doscher at 27 Tilden Hill Road in Norwich for our Class Meeting and brunch.

Those wishing to attend the football game should order tickets directly from Dartmouth Athletics at <https://tickets.dartmouth.edu/Online/> or by calling 603-646-2466. You can request the Class of 1966 section. This website also provides information about other teams and schedules.

Once again, we will return to the comforts of the Norwich Inn "Living Room" for hors d'oeuvres and drinks at 6:30, followed at 7:30 for dinner in the "Terrace Room." You have a choice of slow roasted prime rib, seared salmon fillet, or vegetable gnocchi. We will invite our Class of 1966 Dickey Scholars, Athletic Sponsored students and Class Scholar to join us. The student informal presentations over dessert are consistently impressive.

To join us, please complete and mail in the "sign up" sheet on the next page with your check made out to Dartmouth Class of 1966 to Al Keiller by October 1.
